DEAD OR ALIVE

By R. Ray Baker

Grimes stuffed the remnants of a sadden doughnut into his mouth and washed them down with the last of the hot coffee, which he had brewed himself, and which was more hot than it was coffee.

Tiptoeing to the bed, he touched his lips to the forehead of the wan, grish face, and, with glancing eyes, watched a shaft of early sunlight dart through the window and blend with the pure gold hair curled on the pillow.

"A ray of hope—maybe," Grimes mused. He sighed slightly, and his trim, white upper teeth drew his lower lip beneath them and crushed
the skin with a pain he did not notice.

Turning from the bed, he reached toward the chair he had just vacated and struggled into a shiny brown coat that had been draped over its back. From a nail on the wall he took a gray checked cap with rain-ruined frontpieces and pushed it back over his contrary black locks.

Grimes glanced at his hand, the knob of the door and looked back at the bed. The golden hair and the sunlight were vying in a contest of brilliance. Something like a smile, in which hope merged with pride,
crept across his tanned young face,
but it faded instantly, and his dark eyes glistened again when a hacking cough from the bed, behind him, told him by a red spot on either cheek
of the occupant.

He opened the door and stepped out on the board sidewalk just as a baldhead swooped down from the blue and snatched a breakfast from placid Traverse bay. With a vigorous stride he started on his way, and with a quick turn, he walked to the exclusive Harbor Beach colony.

"I won't have her this time next year unless I get her out of my next fall," was the trend of Grimes' thought as he passed the slumbering cavities in which the idle wealthy of the city sought rustication. "Lord knows driving a motor car, a speed crusher wouldn't bring enough coin in two years to do it."

As he skirted the cluster of trees that sheltered the clubhouse veranda and the complex running morning sun and came within sight of the Archibald place, gazing down the avenue, he saw a lady in a blue dress haughtily from a lofty bluff, he was so absorbed in contemplation that he all collided with a rugged, florid-visaged, pleasantly round little man attired in blue and wearing an official looking cap on which a golden lighthouse gleamed.

"Ahoy," called the lightkeeper.
"Veer off or you'll hit this rock of Grimes. What's the matter with your compass, me boy?"

As they came to a halt Grimes was obliged to smile away his gloom as in reflection of the beauty of the cracked lines of the other's countenance.

"An' how's the wife this morning?"
rattled on the guardian of the season.
"She's just the same, but she's a little gentler, more sympathetic."
"An' why for the big rush about beginnin' the daily labor? Sure, of an Archibald ain't gettin' up at no 5 o'clock for a pleasure spin—you can't tell me that."

"No better," was Grimes' rueful rejoinder to the first query. "I'm going to take a run out on the bay and see if I can make the fourth cylinder hit as it ought to," he added. "The boss was talking of showing off the Lightning to some speed demon."

"Now, ain't that too hot about the wife," observed the lightkeeper, real commiseration in his voice. "I'll have my own woman run over to yer shack
this afternoon and see if she can chaw
some of the gloom away. By the way, of course you ain't heard the startlin'
news from the springs."

"Thank you, captain, I hate to leave her there alone all the time.
What startlin' news do you mean?"
"Mebbe you wouldn't call it startlin',
"responded the captain in a broad grin manifesting his enjoyment of the role of a sensation monger. "It's jest
the little matter of $10,000 bein' stole from the First National last night or early this mornin'."

"The safe was blown open in a regular professional manner. I jest happened over to the Springs at an unusual hour and there's a section of the safe open. A thousand dollars reward has already been offered for the capture of the burglar dead or alive."

Grimes started.
"But don't worry, me boy," went on the captain. "The First National has plenty to make good all the savin' accounts, and the loss of $10,000 ain't enough to start no run in the institution. They say it looks like a one-man job. You better look sharp on the job. He might be stickin' around somewhere, though, and he might be farrin' long in the vicinity. Well, I jest gossiped long enough. Gotta be movin' on."

As the lightkeeper, with a wave of a hand vanished behind the trees, Grimes hurried out on the Archibald
dock, where the Lightning was moored.
He drew the boat to the landing
by means of the painter, leaped aboard, and, stooping, entered the little cabin that sheltered the engine and crew in stormy weather.

When he straightened up inside the cabin Grimes looked into the barrel of a revolver clutched in a huge, hairy hand. A glint of a man with bushy brown whiskers towered back of the weapon.

"Welcome, little stranger," said the man with the gun, champing viciously
on a pipe.

Grimes grew white beneath the tan and braced himself along the wall of the cabin. Such a situation was enough to startle the most veteran soldier of misadventure.

"How long will it take to get this here little racer into action?" inquired the man with the gun. "I jest straddled a stool and waved his revolver in the direction of the six-cylinder motor. 'Manhattan Landing will be our port of debarcation,' an'

Washington, August 26.—A bill to stop all immigration for two years and to deport all aliens who withdraw their first papers to escape military service during the war, was introduced today by Chairman Johnson, of the house immigration committee.

After the end of the two-year suspension system, aliens would be entitled to admission to the United States on a passport to become an American citizen. They would be required to register annually until citizenship was conferred. Fraudulent entry would be punishable by five years' imprisonment and $1,000 fine, to be followed by deportation.
Few exceptions to the prevention of immigration for two years are permitted by the bill. Alien residents of the United States might send for their parents, grandparents, unmarried or widowed daughters, or sons under 16, unless these relatives had been alien enemies, for whom special authorization for admission would be required. Skilled labor also might be imported under existing law, and foreign officials, tourists, students and professional men might come into the country temporarily under passports.

Adoption of the bill would mean, its framers say, literal fulfillment of the so-called gentlemen's agreement between the United States and Japan with respect to immigration, and would keep out Japanese coolies.

The bill provides that aliens coming within the exemption clause of the immigration act must secure passports from their own governments, signed by consular agents of the United States and limited as to time.

But the bill does not stop there.
Aliens, who under present laws are eligible to citizenship, would be permitted to come to the United States without passports providing they state in writing their belief that they intend to reside here and become citizens. They must agree to register at least once a year, failure to do so being a cause for deportation. Failure to take out first papers at the end of two years' residence, also is cause for deportation.

After taking out papers, aliens must remain here five years for final citizenship, with a time allowance for knowledge of the elements of the United States plan of government and proficiency in the English language. If an alien does not acquire knowledge in eight years he is sent home. A plan is provided by which citizens of a contiguous territory, Canada and Mexico, may visit the United States on cards issued annually.

CANADA'S NEXT
INTERNAL LOAN
FOR $250,000,000

MORE FAVORABLE THAN U. S.
OFFERS.

Washington, August 26.—This morn-ing's Tribune says:
"The Dominion of Canada is planning an internal loan of approximately $250,000,000, it was learned yesterday."

"According to the preliminary information that has reached bankers here, the new bonds will be offered to the public in October at a 5 1/2 per cent. basis, without tax exempt features. This rate, which has been mentioned in authoritative Canadian circles, is, in the opinion of bankers, far less than Canada would have to pay for a loan in this country. In the recent $75,000,000 loan, which was offered here by a syndicate of bankers headed by J. P. Morgan and company, the yield to investors was 5.50 per cent, and conditions of the investment market at that time were regarded as more favorable to borrowers than at present. Chicago and Canadian bankers underwrote $25,000,000 of province of Ontario bonds a short time ago, and offered them to investors on a 6 1/2 basis.

"Although the exchange rate is more than four per cent. against Canada, the Dominion finance ministry is said, feels that it would be inadvisable to borrow more in this country in the near future. The Canadian authorities share the British view that an adverse form will set as a barrier to extensive purchases of merchandise in this country and thus prevent the unlimited piling up of indebtedness. But Canada, bankers say, especially objects to paying the high interest rate, which the American investment market would demand."

"The banking community continues to discuss other foreign financing, but the consensus of opinion is that the impending European and South American loans will be delayed till the fall, when, it is expected, the investment market will reveal more absorptive power. The market is still described as 'soaky.'"

Your Office is Known by its Stationery

THE Merchant who advertises his wares judges his customers by their appearance, and the customer judges the store by its goods and service.

But the man who carries out his business by correspondence, and the merchant who trades with his retailers, are judged by the stationery they use.

Does your stationery show a commercial standing? Does it tend to increase your credit? Or does it look cheap and paltry?

The wholesale houses and the offices in the east judge the western merchant and others by the stationery used.

In "Hammermill Bond" Service you have one of the best makes of paper and envelopes procurable. In our printing service you have the best means of carrying out the work to your satisfaction. We are equipped with the latest and most up-to-date typesetting and printing machinery to be found in the west.

We carry a good stock of "Hammermill Bond" in various weights and envelopes to suit any office. Ask us our prices on your office requirements, and we shall be pleased to show you samples and weights.

Baby Bear is Afraid of People

The smooth, hard, dustless road wound about through the sylvan depths of giant ferns and mighty timbers in a district round Spirit Lake, Vancouver Island. Far away a smoke smudge on the blue above the heaving ocean showed where a Canadian Pacific passenger liner was ploughing the heaving Pacific, bound for the Orient. On the right Spirit Lake gleamed in the bright sun. There was a gentle rustling in the darkness of the undergrowth, the ferns swayed gently. Then there came a sound of scratching and clawing, and finally the head of a three-months' cub rose alongside a great Douglas fir bole. As he cleared the ferns he paused and glanced eagerly about. He sought sight of his mother, who was so wrapped up in some luscious salmon berries that she had forgotten him. Higher and higher he climbed, widening his scope of view. Then came a terrible sound that paralyzed him where he clung to the ragged bark. It was the raucous challenge of a motor horn. Hugging the tree tightly he hoped to be overlooked. On the smooth road a few yards away, a car rolled into sight a terrible engine carrying ladies and gentlemen. A man crashed through the ferns and pointed a black box at him. The cub darted high in the branches of the towering fir.

WANT SANITY IN UNIONS FOR THE COMING MONTHS.

London, Aug. 24.—The quarterly report of the general federation of trades unions contains a warning by the management committee:

"November, 1919, to May, 1920, will be a fearful month," says the report. "Unless sanity returns and production increases, they will be tragic months."

made at the Armoures.

have been precipitated which might have been avoided and union funds have been needlessly dissipated. Some strikes had a distinctly political origin. Political strikes must either fail, or end in revolution. They are not against the capitalists, but against the community. It is not the capitalist who suffers, but the people. Against such strikes the government must protect the people or surrender its functions. The effect of such strikes is to decrease production and increase the price of all commodities. It will be our port of desperation, and a union is a union is a union.

NO OBLIGATION TO USE AMERICAN MILITARY TO PROTECT OTHERS

PLACES NATIONS IN POSITION OF COMRADESHIP AND PROTECTION, SAYS WILSON

Washington, August 19.—President Wilson, interpreting the league of nations' covenant today for the senate foreign relations committee, declared it imposed no legal obligations for the use of American military forces in protecting the territory or independence of any other nation. But, he added, that the covenant might involve, in certain circumstances, an "absolutely compelling moral obligation" which might be even stronger than a legal promise. Pressed for a more exact definition by committee members who insisted that the whole question was a "rope of sand," he asserted that, on the other hand, he considered it as placing the nations in an "attitude of comradeship and protection" which would compel respect for the principles of justice and liberty.

BREAKS ANOTHER PRECEDENT

Meeting the committee in a round table discussion in the east room of the White House, in contradiction to the precedent of more than a century and with the whole nation listening through the medium of a relay of public stenographers, the president went into many of the details of the peace negotiations and touched on all the hotly debated questions which have divided the senate in its consideration of the peace treaty. Article 10 of the covenant, guaranteeing the integrity of league members against aggression, he declared, would leave to each nation "complete freedom of choice as to the application of force." Even if the United States representative on the council joined in an unanimous recommendation for military action, the final decision for or against must rest, so he asserted, with the United States, with congress, he said. Whatever advice the council gave under its authority to take such action as he deemed appropriate, must also be deemed appropriate by the United States to be binding on this government, he argued, though in the background there would be such a potential moral force that he doubted if the nation would often decline to act.

The president revealed that Japan's promise to return Shantung to China was reduced to written form in the minutes of the peace conference. He asserted he had "every confidence" that the promise would be carried out, and told the senators it was "the best that could be got" out of the negotiations, Japan having given notice she would withdraw from the conference if her demands were refused. The United States delegates, he said, had tried to keep the nation free from obligations in European affairs "so far as it was honorably possible to do so," but he asserted that it might be necessary to keep some American troops in the Rhine district under the treaty for the next 15 years.

NATION ITS OWN JUDGE

He declared the nation would be its own sole judge whether its obligations had been fulfilled under the disputed withdrawal clause of the league covenant; that purely domestic questions were safe from the league's interference; and that the Monroe doctrine was clearly preserved.

SMUTTS' PLAN PREVAILS

The league, the president exclaimed, was built on the plan of General Smuts of South Africa.

Mr. Wilson revealed that he had suggested that the United States take no part of the German reparations, but asked that the conference reserve disposition of the German Pacific Island of Yap on a suggestion that it was needed for an American naval station.

DECLINES TO ANSWER

Some of the senators' questions the president declined to answer on the ground of international policy. How the United States delegates voted on Japan's proposals for racial equality clause in the league covenant, he said he could not disclose, "in the interest of international good understanding," and for the same reason he said he could not go into the negotiations over the French frontier give. The committee a copy of the record of Japan's Shantung promise.

Early action on the treaty was urged in a statement by the president at the outset of the conference. This was necessary he held, so that a peace basis might be reached, and as the other treaties under negotiation now at Versailles were being delayed until the world learned what would happen to the treaty with Germany. He said he saw no reasonable objection to senate reservation, but thought it unwise to incorporate them in the ratification itself.

In replying to a long series of questions by Senator Brandegee, Republican, Connecticut, the president was led into an exhaustive discussion of the co-mingling of moral and legal obligations in treaties.

"A moral obligation," said Mr. Wilson, "is, of course, superior to a legal obligation, and if I may say so, in the end it will stand with other nations. The cause of the element of judgment in judgment; in a legal obligation there is no element of judgment."

The president disagreed with Senator Brandegee, who suggested that the cause we are obligated in any event. "I think it is of the greatest importance," replied the president, "for cause the element of judgment on others into it."

"But I am assuming," returned Mr. Brandegee, "if the council should advise us to do a certain thing, and congress refused to do it, and if every other nation's representative assembly can do the same thing, it seems to me like a rope of sand and

TRAVELLING MAN GAINS 20 POUNDS

CRULL EATS WHAT HE WANTS AND SLEEPS LIKE A LOG SINCE TAKING TAN-LAC

"My opinion of Tan-lac is that it can't be beat," said P. H. Crull, a well known travelling salesman, living at 312 West 31st Street, Indianapolis, Ind., while discussing the medicine recently. Mr. Crull has lived in Indianapolis for the past twenty years. He has represented the Taggart Baking Company on the road for twelve years and is one of the most popular "Knights of the Grip" travelling Indiana.

"I can testify to both the immediate and lasting results that come from its use," continued Mr. Crull. "A little over a year ago I got rid of a bad case of stomach trouble, from which I had been suffering for two years, by taking Tan-lac, and do you know I haven't suffered a particle from indigestion to this good day. I had been having a world of trouble with my stomach and awful pains in my right side and was finally operated on for appendicitis. After the operation I still suffered from indigestion. I had no appetite and what little I did eat would sour, causing gas, bloating and intense pain. It looked like I would never get my strength back, and I was nervous as a cat. One night while out on the road I could not close my eyes to sleep. This condition kept up until I went down to the hotel and bought a bottle of Tan-lac. I was almost a complete nervous wreck."

"About this time I read a statement about Tan-lac that described my case so well that I decided to try a bottle of the medicine. Well, the first bottle helped me so much that I got another and it wasn't but a few weeks until I was free from all signs of stomach trouble and found that I had actually gained twenty pounds in weight, besides going up from one hundred and thirty to one hundred and fifty pounds. I could go out and do a hard day's work and sleep like a log at night, and it made no difference whether I was at a hotel, on a Pullman or home, I could sleep soundly just the same. The medicine gave me wonderful strength and energy and such a big appetite that I could hardly get enough to eat. Well, to make it short, Tan-lac fixed me up in fine shape, and I haven't had the least bit of trouble with my stomach since I finished my first bottle, more than a year ago. I just got another bottle of Tan-lac and my wife and I are both taking it. We had the 'flu' this past winter and neither of us had gotten over the effects of it. But Tan-lac is going to set us right, for I already see a great improvement, especially in our appetites. I am only too glad to recommend Tan-lac, for it is one medicine that can be depended upon for results."

Tan-lac is sold in Red Deer by Hertz-Corset Drug & Book Co., by Stettler by the Palace Pharmacy, Ltd., in Eckville by Eckville Drug Co., in Veteran by Veteran Drug Store, in Delburne by E. J. Hodge, and in Hespero by Macdonnell Bros.

EXPECT HIGHER PRICE OF SUGAR IN NEAR FUTURE.

Ottawa, August 23.—Wholesale grocers in convention at the Chateau Laurier predicted that sugar would near twenty cents a pound before the present shortage is relieved. They declared a real famine would exist before supplies in Canada have caught up, and placed the blame chiefly on the seasons' strike in New York.

As an emergency measure the purchase of 50 carloads of sugar tied up in Canada owing to shipping difficulties, had been recommended by a committee of the wholesale grocers. They will pay, it is said, fifteen cents a pound and the price to the consumers will be sixteen to seventeen cents.

A committee appointed to report on the sugar shortage could give no hope of relief inside of the next month, the decision to buy the fifty carloads, available was arrived at with hesitation, and when the sugar is available it will be attributed among wholesalers throughout the country.

The association pledged itself to assist the board of commerce in its efforts to reduce the cost of living. Differences of detail and disputes between wholesalers and retailers are to be settled in future by a board composed from six from each class of the grocery trade. The members are not yet named.

not an effective tribunal which would result in promoting peace."

"The reason I do not agree with you," Mr. Wilson replied, "is that I do not think such a refusal would be likely often to occur. I believe it would be only upon the gravest grounds, and in case of such a refusal I am indifferent to foreign criticism."

Senator Harding, Republican, Ohio, suggested there was no necessity of writing compact for this republic to fulfill its moral obligations to civilization," to which the president replied: "But it promises the whole world by its stand beforehand that it will stand with other nations in a similar judgment to maintain right in the world."

The president disagreed with Senator Brandegee, who suggested that the cause we are obligated in any event. "I think it is of the greatest importance," replied the president, "for cause the element of judgment on others into it."

"But I am assuming," returned Mr. Brandegee, "if the council should advise us to do a certain thing, and congress refused to do it, and if every other nation's representative assembly can do the same thing, it seems to me like a rope of sand and

ONLY DETERMINATION TO WIN CARRIED CANADIANS THROUGH TO END

CANADIANS SAVED BRITISH ARMY FROM WORST DISASTER IN HISTORY

Ottawa, August 26.—"There were days, previous to August, 1918," said Sir Arthur Currie in his address here yesterday, "when it was nothing but the rugged determination and will to win that carried officers and men through, but with the breach, of the Hindenburg line at the hinge with the Quent-Dreux line, things had changed and people in the allied countries began to get new heart for the struggle."

"I am glad of the welcome which has been extended me," said Sir Arthur Currie, "because I feel it is meant for every man who fought and bled with us."

"There is no member of the force who wants to take undue credit. Our great strength lay in the fact that we were one big fighting machine and we were all doing our share as we saw fit."

SAVED BRITISH DISASTER

General Currie referred to the growth of respect for the Canadian forces from the arrival in France until the end of the war. In the last three months of the war, the Canadians had fired twenty-five per cent. of all the ammunition fired by the entire British army. When the enemy had first used poison gas, General Currie said, it was to him that knowledge of the enemy tactics and the retirement of the troops to the left and right of the Canadians, he (General Currie) had foreseen the worst disaster in the annals of the British army.

When the news came back that the Canadians were holding he could not believe it and had sent up again and again for news. The reputation then made for doggedness was more than borne out by the Canadians in the later years until in the end the Canadians had been recognized as the hardest hitting force on the allied front.

ADVANTAGE OF ORGANIZATION.

The different organization method which made it possible to choose certain divisions for certain work and the pooling of the engineers and artillery of the corps and the Canadians an advantage, said Inspector General Currie, and this factor was largely responsible for their success later. "I am glad to see," said the speaker, "that our army fought against the greatest military machine the world ever produced, yet never lost a gun, in fact in the last two years never failed to take an objective, and there were some of our divisions which never allowed a hostile foot to enter their trenches. We never lost an inch of ground that we had once consolidated."

The hundred days from August 8, 1918, had been the greatest in the history of the world. General Currie said he would urge the government to educate the people more in what that period meant to Canada. The Canadians had been previously told as "the reserve, ready to move wherever the Boche struck." "And," said General Currie, "it was only a question then of how many more blows we could withstand." Haig said that in all the dark days, his remaining comfort was that he had the Canadians to fall back on.

USED AS SPEARHEAD

The Canadian force had been used as the spearhead in the Amiens drive. "We made the plan, set the time and the pace," said General Currie. "The secrecy had been perfect and the objective, the old Amiens line, was taken on the first night. That day we penetrated eight miles, the greatest penetration made by any army in the war, and our victory had wonderful effect. By August 13 we had penetrated 24,000 yards and reached the old Somme battlefield, which the Boche had left in 1916."

General Currie said he had then advised the government to educate the people more in what that period meant to Canada.

NEWS WEEKLY SERMON

By REV. GEO. D. ARMSTRONG

How hear we every man in his own tongue wherein we were born? Acts iii, 17.

There is a striking contrast between the Tower of Babel and the Day of Pentecost, though each in its time was a marvelous showing forth of divine power.

The first symbolizes the ambition of man to stand against life's destructive forces without a sense of dependence upon God and the result of this independence is utter confusion and anarchy. The Day of Pentecost is the outcome of an attitude of waiting expectancy when in humility of spirit the early church humbly opened its doors to the world's great altar steps that "hope through darkness up to God and Heaven came down to earth with unifying and uplifting power."

There is much in each of these strange far off divine events which has a meaning for us today. In our attempt to establish a democracy on earth, it would sometimes seem as if our efforts had ended in failure.

The independence of the individual has separated man from his fellowman and the result of the present time tends to confusion and anarchy.

first century that opposing ideas of world-wide organization and civilization are struggling for supremacy.

The German dream of world empire has striking resemblance to the ambitious conquests of Imperial Rome and the ill defined but very powerful ideal of Democracy, which is sweeping the nations till old time institutions are trembling in the convulsions of progress, is a very real revival of the spirit of the Son of Man.

There are those who see in the disturbing elements that are at work the triumph of evil and to them only a miracle of divine intervention will save the world from complete disaster. Such a view of life might well awaken an appalling sense of fear and helplessness.

To others the dark clouds are shot through with a radiance of divine energy, and they can find a gospel for a race that is restless for God. What form the kingdom of God will take none can tell, but this we know, that it will come in answer to the yearning desire of men for freedom and a life more abundant. The Gospel is not merely to echo from a bygone age but it is the voice of God speaking to men in every experience that tries the soul or burdens the heart.

The Gospel for our age is akin to that which glowed and flashed in Pentecost, O, you who are praying for revival, can you not recognize that it has already come. Have you not faith to see in the stirring events of today the movements of the Divine Spirit of love and power. The spirit of Liberty is awaking the souls of men today and a new sense of human brotherhood is shaping the thoughts of men.

The outpouring of the spirit on Pentecost did not melt the personalities of the disciples into one common mould. The cloven tongues of fire sat upon each of them, and each retained his own individuality.

the underlying unity of faith and hope, of love making the great words of William Law his own:

"Perhaps what the best heathens called reason and Solon's wisdom, St. Paul grace in general; St. John righteousness or love; Luther faith; Pascal virtue; may be only different expressions for one and the same blessing, the light of Christ, shining in different degrees under different dispensations. ### THE C.N.R. AND THE CITY

That the C.N.R. should be built into the city this year filled our thoughts with something akin to jubilation when word came through that the concessions asked for last week from the City Council seem to put us back again into the region of doubt and difficulty. We want the railway in, but we also want it to go right on through the city. It would not be any satisfaction to Red Deer if the line lured itself through our best residential part of the city, and then ran as far, or little further, than the main street, cutting off in its journey one of our most populated suburbs, Waskasoo. That would give the Company the great concession of business to and from the city, and the city the advantage of connecting with the main line and the colliery districts west. But what are we asked to pay?

We are asked to submit to having part of our most beautiful streets broken up and separated, a spur line crossing and closing one of our avenues, and the north end of the city made a shunting ground. The quiet and seclusion of our schools will no longer exist, and the work of our educationalists hampered and impaired to an extent that will be unthought of.

Will the advantages likely to accrue to the city in the future repay us for what we are asked to give up? The decrease in value of the houses in the immediate neighborhood will be increased tenfold if the company is allowed to carry on shunting operations north of the school, and even more property will be put in close proximity to the line.

The money is in hand, why should the company continue on past First Street South and put in the Y on the vacant ground to the west of Parkville. The work has to be done, why not do it at once and leave our residential part of the city intact, as near as possible. Money expended in putting in the Y north of Ross Street might be better expended in putting it in its proper place at the start. The company evidently intend to put the freight sheds up between Ross Street and First St. S. and it would not take a lot more to go on with the filling to the south.

The city fathers rightly judged that their position as such would have been seriously jeopardized if they had consented to such an arrangement, and to even think of such a thing is playing with fire. The only thing to do was to flatly refuse such a request and let the company find a way out. There must be other arrangements, as to tear our city to pieces, and to deprecate the value of our educational facilities and endanger the lives of our school children, is not to be considered.

We have waited for five years to get the line in, and if we have to wait a little longer before the company is prepared to go through with their undertaking we shall not have lost a great deal.

The bonds have been sold, and the money is in hand to go on with the work, why the niggardly cheapness on the part of the company at this stage of the game. Had a private company been the rulers of the road we could have no doubt looked for cheapening, but the company now is in government hands, and we naturally expect the feelings of the people to be considered.

We want the line in, but we want a square deal, and it is not fair for the company to ask permission to come half way, and make a shunting ground just outside our school windows, without absolute guarantees that the arrangement would be only temporary.

ARCHDUKE FORCED OUT BY ALLIES

DURABLE PEACE CANNOT BE ACCOMPLISHED WITH HAPSBURG IN POWER.

Budapest, Aug. 24.—Archduke Joseph and the cabinet of Premier Frelich have resigned as a result of the refusal of the peace conference to recognize them.

Paris, Aug. 23.—The supreme council sent the following note to the Hungarian government, in which an announcement was made that the council would not have dealings with the archduke, and declared that Archduke Joseph was any other member of the Hapsburg family.

"The allied and associated powers have been further considering information derived from reports and from other sources as to recent events in Budapest. Their conclusions are as follows: They are most anxious to achieve a durable peace with the Hungarian people but they feel that this cannot be done while the present Hungarian government is in power. That government can give no existence to the will of the people, but by a coup d'etat carried out by a small body of police under the protection of a foreign army."

"It has as its head a member of the house of Hapsburg, whose policies and actions are largely responsible for the calamity under which the world is suffering and will long suffer. A peace negotiated by such a government is not likely to be lasting nor can the allied and associated powers give it the economic support which Hungary needs."

"To its reply that Archduke Joseph is prepared before approaching the allied and associated powers, to submit his claims to the test of popular elections, we must reply that this procedure cannot be satisfactory if the election is to be carried out under the auspices of the administration which the archduke himself controls."

"The difficulties in the way of obtaining a free and a faithful reflection of the popular will are, in the present unhappy state of Hungary, most serious. They would be overwhelming if it were to be carried out by an assembly elected under such circumstances were really representative, no one would doubt."

"In the interests, therefore, of European peace, the allied and associated governments mean to insist that the present administration should resign and that a government, in which all parties are represented should appear to the Hungarian people."

"The allied and associated governments would be prepared to negotiate with any government which possesses the confidence of an assembly so elected."

The note was signed by Premier Clemenceau.

Paris, Aug. 24.—The supreme council decided to request Roumanian to keep an exact account of all her requisitions in Hungary. The value of these requisitions is to be deducted from the amount Hungary is to surrender to Roumanian under the terms of the peace treaty.

AMERICAN EDITORS VISIT RED DEER

Completing the fourth week of their annual tour, during which they have covered thousands—of miles by rail and six hundred by motor, the National Association of Editors arrived in Red Deer from Banff on Friday morning shortly before six o'clock, and were met by the Board of Trade and other citizens in autos and conveyed to the armories for breakfast.

The party numbered about 250, and represents newspapers in forty States and every shade of politics. The association to which they belong has over 3,000 membership and takes a tour every year, and in this way has covered the greater portion of the North American continent.

One and all of the party are enthusiastic about Canada, and particularly about the Red Deer district—the first district in which they had the pleasure of seeing the after effects of a fall of rain. In speech with some of them on Friday morning The News man was greeted with such remarks as "It's a pleasure to get into God's country, where it rains occasionally!" This is the greatest grass we have seen on our trip," and "This reminds me of home to see some rain."

The significance of the visit of these moulders of public opinion has been pointed out by many prominent Canadians in addresses tendered to them at different points on their journey. Their impressions will be published in every paper in the United States and must therefore come to the attention of millions of readers.

A well served breakfast was provided by the ladies of the city, and after breakfast some enlightening and entertaining speeches were made. Mayor Lord welcomed the company to the city and referred to the beautiful spots in and around the district, and the activities and position of the city.

The President of the Board of Trade then addressed the gathering, going into the farming activities and industrial possibilities of the immediate city and district.

Senator Michener dealt more chiefly with the provincial activities industrially and the relations of the Dominion with the people over the line, referring to the different feeling which existed between the two nations resulting from a common suffering and common sacrifice during the great war.

The chairman then called upon Mr. J. Bruce Walker, who is an ardent proponent of a manhood entirely his own. He is travelling with the party representing the Department of Immigration and Colonization, and devoted himself to the interrogation mark for the party. All the questions they can think of they ask him, and he was supposed to answer them all. He congratulated the speakers of the city on the fact that they had not claimed Red Deer to be the only place on the map, but had admitted the existence of other places in Canada, which, he said, would give weight to the good things they had said about Red Deer, and make their hearers more willing to take it as the truth. He assured his hearers that the editorial party fully appreciated the good things that had been provided, and the reception that had been tendered to them.

He then called for cheers for the citizens of Red Deer, and the party made no mistake about the way they gave them.

All the members of the party expressed their appreciation of all that had been done for them, and of their admiration of the country through which they had passed.

After breakfast the party split up, and auto cars to the number of nearly thirty were quickly filled up and a journey round the district was taken. The rest of the party made the best of their time looking round the city, a good many visitings, as was only natural, the offices of the local papers, many expressing surprise that Red Deer had two offices with the equipment that they possess.

The party left on their special train about 10.30, fully satisfied with having made a pleasant visit and all that they had seen.

There are two government representatives with the C.P.R. special train which bore the party across the western part of Canada, J. Bruce Walker and R. J. Stead. Mr. Walker represents the Department of Immigration and Colonization, and Mr. Stead, the well-known author, who was formerly a resident of Calgary, represents the Publicity Department of the Dominion Government. The Canadian Pacific Railway, on which the party travels during the latter part of their journey is represented by F. E. Truett, who is representing the railway company, and is now in the city, with headquarters at Winnipeg. These gentlemen have co-operated in doing their best to give the party the most possible pleasure and have seen the most interesting parts of the country through which they have passed. Their efforts have been greatly appreciated by the editors, who are now in their praise of the treatment they have received.

Fred Scully met with a painful accident last Friday morning, having an experience he will not care to repeat. He was travelling north on the early morning train, and when passing Leaside he had a dream in which he saw the train wrecked and scenes of indescribable horror enacted, the train was derailed, and he saw the engine and the cars overturned. He and he rushed to the door of the car and jumped off. Though the train was travelling at a high rate of speed, Fred Scully miraculously escaped with but a shaking up and a badly scratched face.—Innisfail Province.

Royal Yeast has been the standard yeast in Canada for over 50 years, and it is a well known fact that bread made with Royal Yeast possesses a greater amount of nourishment than that made with any other.

DROWNED AT SYLVAN LAKE

Sylvan Lake, owing to its safe beach, has been free of boating and bathing accidents within the memory of the present generation, but this record was unfortunately broken on Wednesday evening, when Frank Fagan, a young C.P.R. brakeman from Red Deer, was upset out of a canoe and sank to his death before help reached him.

The deceased, with Fred Hill, Claude Baile, and John East, took advantage of the Wednesday half holiday to take a trip to Sylvan Lake in the later afternoon in East's car. While the other three went in for a swim, Fagan took out a motor boat for half an hour. He and Hill had the boat out for a few minutes, and then East and Baile took it out beyond the sandbar. They could not get the engine going, and Fagan and Hill went out in a canoe and Fagan got the engine going. Fagan and Hill went back into the canoe and followed the motor boat for a short distance, getting one hundred yards or more north of the end of the boat-house pier in 10 to 12 feet of water.

The canoeists then decided to go back, and Fagan called to Hill to "drag" to turn the canoe. Whether Fagan allowed Hill to do so, or not, is not known, but he apparently had lost in the presence of danger, and with the weight of his clothes on him, what little knowledge of swimming he had, did not reach the water-filled canoe, which he had drifted a few feet from him. Baile and East were some 50 yards or more away, and in trying to turn the canoe, their rudder went off and Baile turned the boat with his arm around the motor. When they got back, Baile saw Fagan sinking and dived for him, but he did not reach him at the depth. When he was ready to give again, they could see no sign of Fagan, and other boats had arrived.

The upset was witnessed from the wharves but most watchers did not take it seriously, as the boys often made a good deal of racket in their sport. Aid. Moyes, Dr. Massicotte, Mr. McCuskey, and others put out, and Dr. Massicotte picked up Hill who was about all in when he was reached, but the Dr. saw no sign of poor Fagan.

A number of Sylvan Lake village residents and Detective Scott, Constables Marks and Robertson, members of the A. P. Police, dragged the lake until 2 a.m. Mr. Jamieson having improvised a deep water electric searchlight, and the A. P. Police, with East, Hill and Baile, started again at 4.30. Their long quest was successful at 7.30 Thursday morning.

Fagan was a good natured, lively, lad, and was the youngest son of Mr. E. D. Fagan, formerly of North Red Deer, and now farming at Oils. The family have had some sorrow this year, a married daughter having passed away before the month could reach her. The two children and friends of the family here had a third son not long ago when a misadventure telegram that their mother was dead reached them. The message was not intended for them.

Coroner Dr. George enquired the following jury which held an inquest on the body at the Sylvan Lake hotel, viz., O. Cunningham (Calgary) foreman, J. Dingwall, G. E. Wilkinson, F. S. Watts, Irvin Hamley, F. D. McCrimmon. Their verdict was that the deceased had come to his death accidentally without any blame to be attached to any person. They recommended, however, that life saving apparatus be procured, and life buoys be placed conveniently on the wharves and about the beach. Baile believed that Fagan might have been saved had he a buoy in the motor boat to throw him, as Fagan went down for the last time when the boat was within six feet of him. The A. P. Police and the jury were satisfied that deceased's comrades had done everything in their power to save him, but he had got back from town at 2.30 a.m. to assist in the search for his mother.

Fagan was notified by the A. P. Police, and came up with his car on Thursday morning. He will have the body sent to Oils for interment.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION

August 16th, 1919.

Mr. R. J. Thompson,

Secy. St. Luke's Parish Hall.

Dear Sir:

It affords me great pleasure to hand you herewith a copy of the resolution which was passed unanimously by the Directors of this Society at the meeting held on Thursday evening last.

Moved by H. F. Kenny, seconded by W. T. Coots—that the Directors of the 1919 Red Deer Fair, place on record their appreciation of the dining hall and refreshment services given by the St. Luke's Parish Hall committee during the Fair.

The whole contract was exceptionally well conducted with entire satisfaction to the Directors.

Yours very truly,

J. E. WELTON,

Secretary.

HOW CABINET MINISTERS SUM UP SITUATION IN THE WEST

Premier Stewart—"The situation in southern Alberta, though serious still, is not so serious as it was some weeks ago. Both the old timer and the newcomer agree that we may go through worse sieges than the present one, and come out successfully, and we will do so again."

Hon. J. A. Calder, minister of immigration and colonization—"Our people in this country have got into a habit that must be stopped. We have become extravagant, both as individuals and as a government. One thing has struck me in visiting our Canadian cities is the extravagance of the people, of which there are evidences everywhere. There is our way in which the future of this country can be assured, and that is by everybody working and saving."

Hon. Arts government—"One thing has struck me in visiting our Canadian cities is the extravagance of the people, of which there are evidences everywhere. There is our way in which the future of this country can be assured, and that is by everybody working and saving."

Hon. Dr. Toinie, Dominion minister of agriculture—"Single crop farming reminds me of the man who goes on issuing checks without making any deposits in the bank. Sooner or later there will be an S.O.S. call, and then the Dominion department of agriculture intends to assist and stimulate mixed farming with livestock as its basis, thus to conserve the fertility of the soil and assure our agriculture continuing prosperity."

To all persons interested in R. R. 1, I wish to announce that after the 1st day of September next, the mail will leave Red Deer at 8 o'clock a.m., instead of 5 o'clock p.m., on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as usual.

And on the new route, No. 4, will say: Get your boxes ready as the first day of September next, leaving Red Deer on Monday and Friday of each week at 8 o'clock a.m. Yours for business.

JAS. M. MEYERS, Contractor.

STATES THAT FRASER RIVER IS NOW BARREN

Vancouver, August 21.—"Once the greatest salmon producing river in the world, the Fraser river is now barren because the United States authorities and interests have been and are now so blind and so selfish as to take preventive action."

That is the Hon. William Sloan's summary of conditions existing in the sockeye salmon world, and as commissioner of fisheries of the province of British Columbia, the minister's words carry weight. In an indictment of the policy pursued by the American legislature, Mr. Sloan insists that while Canada was enacting legislation designed to protect the salmon on their way to the spawning grounds which lie well up the Fraser river, Washington state and federal officials turned deaf ears to the warnings from Canada that some measure of protection should be enacted.

"The result has been," says Mr. Sloan, "that the salmon never reach the Fraser, for traps and seines took them in American waters. Detailed reports which I have from every fishing section of the province show conclusively that the sockeye season is about over. The pack of sockeye in the Fraser canneries last year was only 19,000 cases and the American pack only 50,700. This year the Fraser pack without a few canneries operating, will not exceed 7,000 cases, with Washington about 20,000, if it is that much. Not a single cannerie in the Fraser has the pack of 1,000 cases, and the season is about over. The sockeye that ran to the Fraser this year were hatched in 1915. The catch that year totalled 155,700 cases, of which 91,200 were taken by our canneries and 64,500 by American plants. A more forceful illustration of the depletion of the sockeye run to the Fraser could not be given."

GERMANY CONSIDERS
MEANS TO FULFIL
TREATY TERMS

Berlin, August 20.—A bill providing ways and means for carrying out the peace terms was presented before the national assembly at Weimar on Monday with the approval of the imperial council. It is a far reaching measure the purpose of which is to set definite limits and establish control of all sorts of activities in commerce, finance and industries bearing on the means of government responsibility laid upon Germany by the conditions of peace.

It empowers the government, for instance, to demand and enforce industrial, mercantile and forest work closely concerned with the work of paying indemnities. The government is authorized to demand information about wages and material and may inspect the books, papers and business documents of firms as well as fix prices, adjust labor conditions and supervise the efficiency of industrial equipment. It also imposes penalties up to three years imprisonment and a fine of 50,000 marks for illegal payments of money.

FINED FOR STEALING BOAT.
Before Mr. Joseph Wallace, J.P., on Friday, Matt Wink of Sylvan Lake, pleaded guilty to the theft of a boat belonging to N. A. Kilburn, and was fined $30 and costs, as well as a month's imprisonment. The boat, a motor launch, was found in the lake, and made other charges, and it was passed through the purchases before it was identified as belonging to Mr. Kilburn. There has been more or less trouble between the two parties since the boat was stolen, and the authorities are determined to put a stop to it.

Baethelmeier, $10.00; Mechanical Garage, $4.00.

R. J. Dorn brought to the notice of the meeting an offer from the Calgary Veterans' Baseball Team re the Challenge Cup played for here during the fair. The Calgary team being dissatisfied with the result at that time, now want to play a Red Deer team at Calgary, the game receipts to be divided equally between both teams after expenses have been deducted. After considerable discussion, it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the C. V. A.

Moved by F. Turnbull, seconded by R. A. Hogg and carried that all subscriptions paid by juveniles be refunded.

Mr. Welliver suggested that, as the Association had failed in its objective, it should disband, and advocated that the surplus funds should be returned to subscribers pro rata, and that the equipment of the association should be collected, and turned over to the city commissioners to be held in trust by them.

Moved by F. Turnbull, seconded by R. C. P. Gee, and carried, that the Red Deer Athletic Association disband, and return to all subscribers pro rata share of the subscriptions and funds now on hand, and that the Secretary collect all athletic equipment belonging to the Association and turn same in to the City Commissioners by October 1, 1919, same to be held in trust by them, and that the President write a letter of explanation, same to be published by the Press, together with an audited statement, and that a copy of the letter and statement be sent to the city council.

Moved by F. Turnbull, seconded by E. S. Hogg, and carried, that the Secretary be granted an honorarium of $25.00, together with the thanks of the committee for his work during the season.

Moved by E. S. Hogg and seconded by A. H. Hogg and carried, that all surplus statement be handed over to the C. V. A.

THOUSANDS OF GIRLS EMIGRATE IN SPRING

Winnipeg, August 20.—Without any employment in prospect, and ignorant of labor conditions in Canada, thousands of English, Scotch and Irish women, who served during the war, will return to Canada next spring.

H. B. Willing, secretary of the Imperial Veterans' Association, was notified of their intention today that they would not return to their old homes, but would go to Canada next spring, and according to orders they do not require to have any definite object in going overseas.

It will mean that thousands of women will take advantage of the offer. Mr. Willing said: "We have been informed that women are very anxious to emigrate."

Mr. Willing was of the opinion that the girls would not be willing to do housework.

"They want to get married, or enter business, perhaps," he said.

Brumpton &amp; Gaetz Limited

We all like bargains, don't we? It's a very human trait which appeals to all. We've something to gratify this harmless passion, and you will find it in our Boot & Shoe Department. We have laid out a lot of broken lines in Women's, Misses' and Children's White Footwear at clearing prices, and we expect to see the end of them before this month is out. It comprises Women's Canvas Bals and Bluchers, a few Oxfords and some very good Pumps; Misses' Bluchers, Mary Jane's, Brown Canvas Black Down with leather soles, and a few lines of White Canvas Outing goods with rubber soles. In Children's lines there are lots of money-saving specials that will carry the kiddies through until the cold weather at a most moderate cost.

Hurlbut Welts and Pussy Boots

We are getting delivery now of some lines ordered last winter; however, we have them now and are thankful for it. Our range comprises Black Calf in buttoned and laced, Black Calf Bluchers, Tan Calf Bluchers, Buttoned Patents with Mat top, Gun Metal Bluchers and Pussy Boots. Prices range from only, per pair ..... $2.00 to $4.50

Bedroom Slippers for Ladies, Misses and Children

Really, we've got some beauties; the comment we usually hear when we show them is: "Aren't they lovely," with the "lovely" drawn out in an affectionate way. We won't say another word about them excepting that they come in Grey, Tan and Rose, and sell at

Sizes 8 to 10 1/2, for ..... $1.45
Sizes 11 to 2, for ..... $1.90
Sizes 2 1/2 to 7 for ..... $2.50

White Colt Sandals

We received another shipment at the old price after a somewhat wordy warfare. However, all's well that ends well, and we can sell you these splendid Stitch Down Sandals still at a reasonable price as things go these days.

Sizes 5 to 7 1/2, for ..... $2.00
Sizes 8 to 10 1/2, for ..... $2.35
Sizes 11 to 2 for ..... $2.75

PLEASE LISTEN:

PLEASE LISTEN: Here are two lines the Jobbers gave us just to get rid of us for they got weary of our continual "grouch" about high prices. A good leather House Shoe with a very high easy toe and low broad heel; something very easy for busy feet. Price only ..... $2.00

A better line of Dongola stock, laced Oxfords, easy last, low heels. We're sure they are comfortable and we don't think they can be bought today wholesale for what we are retailing them at. Price ..... $3.95

"La Camille" Corsets

Owing to difficulties at the factory in the States, we have been short of some lines for several weeks, having failed to anticipate the large sale that has materialized for these goods. But we are clearing a shipment at the Customs this morning which will sort us up pretty well.

If there's a reason for anything—there's a reason why so many well-dressed women are discontinuing other makes and coming for "LA CAMILLE" CORSETS

It may be the grace of outline these corsets give—

It may be the extreme comfort the "Ventilo" back and attached front shield give—

It may be the wearing qualities—

It may be the many models shown—

It may be the extreme care and pleasant service given by our experienced costiers—

And it may be all of these things—

But certain it is that La Camille Corsets are growing in favor day by day.

Wearers are insisting on their friends buying them. This does not happen; it requires an article of merit to grow in favor.

PRICES $4.00 to $10.75

It may be the extreme comfort the "Ventilo" back and attached front shield give—
